

October 8, 2015

By Derek Pridemore

Jared, Ryan, Robert, and I all worked on designing the motor project plan to determine its viability. The biggest things to consider are rotations per minute, torque produce, and price. Price could be a limiting factor for the motor design as pancake motors (which would be the optimal motor for this project) are slightly out of our price range.